Diameter: 56 cm (22")

Description

A handsome solid oak cue stand of reformed Gothic design circa 1880, probably by Burroughes and Watts of London.

A central chamfered decorative finial is complimented by three smaller of the same form, mounted on a tri-form top.

Connected to a revolving base via chamfered uprights, some of the cue clips have been replaced over time.

A good original finish has been retained to the oak and sympathetic green cloth fitted in the base.
